Recognizing Excellence in Volunteerism and Community Service in Illinois

Administered by:

Dear Citizens of Illinois:

For millions of Americans, volunteering is a key to healthy, fulfilling and meaningful lives. Volunteering renews our connection to our community and helps build self worth and social responsibility in citizens throughout this state and across the nation. With more than 122 million adults and teens volunteering yearly, contributing about 23 billion hours a year, volunteers are truly one of our greatest resources.

Volunteering and giving back to our communities should not go unnoticed. To honor citizens in Illinois who spend countless hours volunteering, I would like to announce the Illinois Points of Light Award. This award will be given to twelve individual volunteers across the state each year. It will be administered by the Illinois Commission on Volunteerism and Community Service.

Let's work to recognize these very dedicated unsung heroes. Please use the enclosed form to nominate deserving volunteers. There is no deadline for submission, so nominations can be received at any time throughout the year.

This is a great opportunity to recognize and reward those who have given so much to our communities. They are the thoughtful, committed citizens who continue to help change our world - one activity at a time. Let's honor them together.

Sincerely,

Rod R. Blagojevich
Governor
